

Photojournalism workshop: Your story in a photo

Take a photo,
win $250 cash!

Ever heard 'a picture is worth a thousand words?'

Now you can learn to tell your own story through photographs and compete in a water-themed photo competition to win $250 cash! No professional equipment is needed, you can use your cell phone!

Photos © Ann Alimi Photography (used with permission)

Not just any workshop... This FREE workshop and optional photo competition are rare opportunities to share your views and ideas with those who manage and make decisions about your water!. Learn about your local water system and how to tell a story through photos. The workshop is part of graduate research at the University of Waterloo (visit GrandErieStudy.ca or email at bottom of poster), led by the Resident Researcher at Great Art for Great Lakes (visit greatnessglp.com/GAGL).

DETAILS

When: July 13, 2019, 1-4pm
(light refreshments provided)

Where: The Carolinian Café
at 5 Cayuga Street N

Cost: FREE to attend!

ELIGIBILITY

You are a member of the Six Nations of the Grand River OR you live, work and/or attend school in Haldimand County.

You are at least 16 years of age and are willing to sign a consent form to participate (under 18 years old your legal guardian will sign).

How to participate... You are invited to submit a water-themed photo to the researcher for use in her research by August 9, 2019. It is your choice whether to participate in the competition or to have your photo considered for public display at The Carolinian Café (this is not required). Any costs associated with creating the photo are the responsibility of the photographer.

To request a registration form or for more information:
Email Elaine at e23ho@uwaterloo.ca

This study has been reviewed and received ethics clearance through a University of Waterloo Research Ethics Committee.